

NEXT WEEK'S COMPLETE NOVEL IN THE EVENING WORLD

THE BLUE BUCKLE

A New York Summer Mystery Story of Smuggled Jewels and a Dictograph

WILL BEGIN MONDAY

What I should have done to him was what I did to that nurse."

(Mrs. Carman here referred to the time she slapped the face of a Mrs. Variance in her husband's office. This was about six weeks before the murder of Mrs. Bailey.)

"Did you ever catch Celia Coleman, the colored maid, in a lie?" asked the reporter.

"No," replied Mrs. Carman. "She always seemed honest. She was a very quiet girl."

MAID HAD TROUBLE WITH HER HEAD.

There was a short pause. Mrs. Carman said suddenly, "But Celia had some trouble with her head. She used to say a mole in her head troubled her. Anyhow you can get a colored maid to say almost anything and everybody knows a detective kidnapped her."

Mrs. Carman then talked of her plans. She said that as soon as possible she and her husband and daughter will leave for a motor trip to a Pennsylvania summer resort.

"I want a long rest in a quiet place where I can think," she explained. "I can't think around here. I want to go to a quiet place where I can plan out my case."

Mrs. Carman switched back to the attitude of the prosecution. Apparently she believes that she was deprived of her legal rights when she was not allowed to go before the Grand Jury, and this will form part of her plea when she is brought to trial.

"Of course, I had a right to appear before the Grand Jury," she maintained. "Their refusal to hear me was an injustice. Just look who they heard—a colored servant and a tramp—and they wouldn't hear me."

SAYS FARRELL IS UNWORTHY OF BELIEF

"That Farrell is unworthy of belief. Do you think a tramp like him could have seen what he says he saw and go to New York and get a case of troubled conscience and come back here and tell the Sheriff. The idea is ridiculous."

Mrs. Carman also protested against the manner of her arrest. She said it could have been done quietly but was accomplished in a manner reminiscent of a circus.

"My departure from home that afternoon and my ride to Mineola made a regular Roman holiday for the curious," she complained bitterly. "It was the cruelest thing ever perpetrated. I shall never forget it as long as I live."

"Now, Mrs. Carman," said the reporter, "everybody in this community and probably everybody in the country who has read of this crime has a theory. The Grand Jury of this county has accused you of killing Mrs. Bailey. Have you any idea that would aid the authorities in finding the person who shot Mrs. Bailey?"

The intensity of Mrs. Carman's gaze did not falter, but her face went pale. She did not try to evade the question.

"Really I haven't had time to think it over. I—oh, I don't want to think about it. I don't want to talk about it."

Here the woman appeared to be on the verge of a breakdown. Her husband broke in with a remark and she collected herself.

TO LATE NOW TO CALL ON MRS. BAILEY'S MOTHER.

"Are you going to see Mrs. Duryea, Mrs. Bailey's mother?" Mrs. Carman was asked. "She has said she would like to see you."

"It is too late now," was the reply.

"I might have called on her the day I went over to Hempstead to see the woman's body, but I didn't think of it. Now I am accused of killing her daughter. How would it look for me to go and see her? The doctor sent some flowers to the funeral. Before I was arrested there was too much for me to do around here to allow me to think of calling on her."

In conclusion Mrs. Carman said that she considered her act in installing a dictograph in her husband's office the cause of her arrest and indictment.

"I know I am to blame for the trouble I am in," she declared. "Putting in that dictograph was a great mistake. The whole case against me is built on that. I didn't put it in because I was jealous of my husband. Our friends used to chaff him and chaff me about how good his chances were to enjoy himself. I put the dictograph in more to reassure myself of the faith I had in my husband than to try to catch him doing something wrong. Then came this terrible tragedy and the accusation against me."

District Attorney Lewis J. Smith is to continue his hunt for new testimony. "We will work on evidence," he said to-day, "which we will submit to a future Grand Jury with the idea of obtaining an indictment for murder in the first degree. We have not yet decided when this evidence will be submitted. I will also decide within a short time whether the trial of Mrs. Carman will be in the County of Supreme Court."

Mr. Smith and Sheriff Pettit, who have worked constantly on the Bailey murder case, left to-day for a motoring trip to Richmond Springs. They will be gone about ten days.

Bank Reserve $25,111,750.

The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they had $25,111,750 reserve in excess of legal requirements from last week.

SULLIVAN IS HOME, FORESEES VICTORY IN OLYMPIC GAMES

Says America Will Have Eight Competitors in Each of the 24 Classes.

A CLEAN-UP IN BOXING.

Europe Will Send 100 Athletic Stars to Compete in Contests at Berlin.

James E. Sullivan, President of the Metropolitan Athletic Association and Secretary-Treasurer of the American Athletic Union, returned from Europe to-day on the White Star liner Celtic, from Liverpool, accompanied by Mrs. Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan attended fifty banquets and brought back with him ten pounds additional weight; also a silver cup presented to him on June 15th by the Olympic Games Committee in Paris in recognition of the work done for the promotion and improvement of the Olympic Games.

Mr. Sullivan was enthusiastic over what had been done at the meetings of the Olympic Games Committee in Paris and overjoyed at getting back to these shores. At the pier he was met by his Secretary, D. J. Ferris, and twenty or more men prominent in athletic circles. He said that more than one hundred European athletic stars are looking forward eagerly to the Olympic Games to be held in Berlin in 1916.

BIG CROWD OF AMERICANS IN THE COMPETITIONS.

At the next Olympic games, Mr. Sullivan said, there will be twenty-four classes of events, and America will have eight competitors in each class, in addition to the boxing, wrestling, shooting and golf events. Mr. Sullivan said that it is a good thing that it has been decided to include boxing in the competitions, and said that the United States will probably "clean up" in those events.

"Golf is a game no longer provincial, or even local, to Scotland, but international," said Mr. Sullivan. "A great deal of interest will be centered, no doubt, in the golfing games, and in these America will stand a very good chance."

Mr. Sullivan said many little and some big difficulties that had stood in the way of a successful Olympic Games meet in Berlin in 1916 had been overcome. The committee had agreed on the standardization of the implements used in the field events, such as the poles for vaulting, the hammer, the sixteen-pound shot, the discus and the javelin and marks. His own name will be stamped on the weights, which will have to be of uniform size, shape and exact uniform in weight.

By a new ruling, beating the gun will not be allowed, so that there will be no more, or at least fewer, false starts.

Speaking of the prospects of the various countries that will compete in 1916, Mr. Sullivan said that there is a marked improvement in athletics in Hungary, which is one of the most coveted positions in that country because of the wave of enthusiasm over athletics. Trainer Robinson, Mr. Sullivan said, is the largest salary ever commanded by an American coach.

GERMANY IS PLEASED WITH WORK OF KRAENZLEIN.

Germany is equally pleased, Mr. Sullivan said, with Alvin Kraenzlein, the one-time American hurdler and jumper who is the official trainer in that country. Mr. Sullivan said that there is an opportunity for another American coach to find employment in Germany, as the country needs a coach.

Finland will not compete because her athletes would have to compete under the Russian flag. Bohemia will represent Austria and Ireland's points will go to Great Britain.

Andre, who, Mr. Sullivan said, is one of the greatest all-around athletes he has ever seen, will compete next year at the athletic games on the opening of the Panama Exposition in California, and W. R. Applegar, the colored sprinter, will compete at the national meet in Baltimore this year.

Mr. Sullivan said that he has read in the newspapers that Howard Drew, the colored sprinter, is going to Europe to race, but that he would not be given permission as he would thus be unable to compete at Baltimore.

SHOT DOWN IN OFFICE.

Railway President's Assistant Had Refused Stranger Audience.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 18.—Felix E. Anderson, assistant to President McCahey of the Terminal Railroad Association, was shot and seriously wounded to-day by a strange man in the office of the Terminal Company at Union Station.

The man entered the President's outer office and demanded to see McCahey. Anderson asked him his business, and, doubting of the purpose of his mission, refused to admit him. Anderson was shot in the shoulder, the bullet passing downward.

ROW OF WHITMAN WITH YOUNG DUELL AIDS JOB HEDGES

Republican Leaders Seem to Be Putting District-Attorney Out of Their Calculations.

TO CALL ON ROOSEVELT.

Hedges Reported to Have Arranged for a Trip to Oyster Bay.

Job Hedges now looms up as the probable Republican nominee for Governor in the next campaign. The statement of Charles H. Duell Jr., that he acted as Charles S. Whitman's agent in negotiating with Col. Roosevelt for Progressive support has put Mr. Whitman outside the calculations of the most influential Republican leaders.

Mr. Duell states positively that Mr. Whitman suggested the Roosevelt alliance. Mr. Whitman denies no less positively. But the fact remains that all of Mr. Duell's meetings with Col. Roosevelt were reported in the newspapers and at no time during the negotiations did Mr. Whitman publicly or privately call off Mr. Duell.

It is reported in political circles that Mr. Hedges will call on Col. Roosevelt at Oyster Bay in the near future and the Progressive nomination will be discussed. There is no chance that Mr. Hedges will entertain the idea of being endorsed by the Bull Moose.

He is an old fashioned straight out and out Republican, and running as such in 1912 he finished second in the race. The result was a great surprise to politicians of all parties, because it was figured that with the G. O. P. split wide open Oscar Straus, the Progressive candidate, would be close up to Sulzer.

HEDGES LIKELY TO BE ORGANIZATION CANDIDATE.

Of course there is nothing to prevent Mr. Whitman from going after the Republican nomination by petition, but Mr. Hedges, it is prophesied, will be the organization candidate as provided for in the primary law. He is the choice of State Chairman Barnes and the State leaders generally, and is the only candidate for the nomination thus far mentioned with the nerve to make the race on an anti-Roosevelt basis.

Mr. Hedges announced his candidacy last winter and has had a compact little organization working in his interest ever since. He has written no letters, but has never hesitated to tell just what he thinks about men and conditions in this State. The members of the old machine are back of him to a man and he has the advantage of being in position to claim the nomination in return for the fight he made for the party two years ago.

A few figures from the returns in the last gubernatorial election will show why Hedges is regarded as a particularly strong man now. To begin with, he beat the Bull Moose candidate by nearly 50,000 despite the fact that he did not receive the organization support of the Republicans which he should.

It was an open secret that Leader William Barnes was for James W. Wadsworth Jr. for Governor at the beginning of the last campaign. It was not until Hedges became dangerous that he was selected to head the ticket and Wadsworth was named for Lieutenant-Governor.

GLYNN LED ALL CANDIDATES IN THE VOTING.

Martin Glynn, who ran for Lieutenant-Governor with Sulzer, was the highest man of all candidates. His vote was 665,742. Sulzer ran next with 649,559. Then came Wadsworth with 450,539. Hedges received 444,105.

Hedges already has his petitions ready and will formally announce his candidacy in a few days. He will make a very active campaign and it is understood that his vigor will force the support of Barnes, who has announced all along that he is for the strongest candidate.

Friends of Hedges say Whitman is a dead end in the political pit and that Col. Theodore Roosevelt is the man who killed him. If Whitman should continue to show signs of political life it is understood to be the plan of the Bull Moose investigators to attack the District-Attorney's record. Every indictment handed down since Mr. Whitman has been in office is said to be recorded by the Roosevelt supporters. A large number of cases which did not result in indictment are also believed to be on record. Just what use is to be made of these records is not publicly known.

Mrs. Carman as She Appeared When Bailed in Court Yesterday

MRS. FLORENCE CARMAN

Greenwich street, while the alleged lookout walked west in Spring street.

Dr. Schmitz called to Policeman Collins, who was passing, and started for the door through which the two men had come. Just then Mr. Hefferman, bloody and staggering, came out. By that time the three men in the robbery had disappeared.

After Mr. Hefferman had been sent to the hospital Dr. Schmitz, while talking to detectives on the corner, saw Fitzpatrick standing across the street and identified him as the look-out.

Detective began sauntering over and grabbed Fitzpatrick, whose hands were found to be blood-stained.

Protesting his innocence, Fitzpatrick was locked up in the Macdougal street station. Soon after his arrest Edward Hartman of No. 35 Watts street and John Clayton of No. 336 Spring street called at the station house with an alibi for the prisoner.

"They said that at the time of the hold-up Fitzpatrick was in their company eating lunch in Pat Johnson's saloon at No. 33 Spring street and at the first he knew of the crime was when somebody came in and told about it. Then, according to the alibi witnesses, they walked up with Fitzpatrick to Greenwich street, where he was arrested."

Dr. Schmitz persisted in his identification. Then Hartman and Clayton brought the bartender of Johnson's saloon, who corroborated their alibi and accounted for the bloodstains. He said Fitzpatrick's hands had been scratched by a kitten while he was getting some wood from the cellar of the saloon this morning.

Still Dr. Schmitz insisted that he was right. As Fitzpatrick admitted that he was arrested not long ago for robbing a drunken man, the police concluded to hold him for investigation, but his status was changed and he was held as a material witness.

75-YEAR-OLD WHISKEY FOUND IN WATER TANK

Workmen Removing Old Landmark Discover Dust-Covered Flask.

A bottle of whiskey believed to be at least seventy-five years old was unearthed this morning by workmen who were demolishing the Old Water Tank at Reade and Centre street for purposes of building.

Between the two walls of the old tank the two workmen were surprised when they discovered a bottle that had an inch of dust around it. Cleansing made it possible to read the inscription and ascertain that whiskey was in the bottle. The structure was built in 1801, and the old water tank can be remembered by old time New Yorkers who refer to many historical associations with it.

30,000 Workers Locked Out.

BERLIN, July 18.—Thirty thousand textile workers in the district of Posen, Prussia, were locked out to-day by their employers as a result of the strike of 15 fullers.

GETS $70,000 TIP FOR BEING POLITE WHEN A WATER

Homesick Englishman Leaves That Sum to Man He Met at Hotel Avon.

Frank R. Patterson was a waiter in the Hotel Avon, No. 161 Lexington avenue, two years ago. One day a man about fifty years old sat at one of his tables. He seemed downcast and the sympathetic waiter, serving him solicitously, gained the guest's gratitude and confidence. He told Patterson he was an Englishman and he was very homesick in New York.

He said his name was Arton H. Batchelder. He willingly accepted Patterson's offer to guide him about the city, and the waiter succeeded in driving his homesickness away. They became fast friends, and when the visitor was leaving he asked Patterson to go to England with him. But the latter declined on account of his approaching marriage.

Later Patterson went to Boston, where he now lives at No. 19 West Dedham street. He continued as a waiter and corresponded regularly with his English friend. Last Wednesday Patterson was notified that Batchelder, who is in Birmingham, England, was dead, and that he had left $70,000 in his will to the accommodating waiter he met in New York.

TRY AGAIN TO AVOID N. H. DISSOLUTION SUIT

Final Effort Will Be Made Monday at Conference Between McReynolds and Directors.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Final effort to bring about a dissolution of the New Haven Railroad system without suit in court will be made at a conference at the Department of Justice Monday between a committee of New Haven directors, Attorney-General McReynolds and T. W. Gregory, special assistant in charge of the case.

The conference was requested by President Taft of the New Haven Road, who telegraphed Attorney-General McReynolds to-day asking if a committee of New Haven directors would be received. The telegram contained no explanation of what plan of solution might be offered.

The disagreement between the Department of Justice and the New Haven board of directors, accepted by the State of Massachusetts on the sale of Boston and Maine stock owned by it. No reference was made to that in the telegram. Department officials did not understand what plans the New Haven directors might have, but it was generally believed unless the conference developed a way out of the difficulty, the suit to dissolve the New Haven would be filed in the United States District Court for the Southern district of New York by the middle of the week.

Apoplexy Fatal to David Marks.

PANAMA, July 18.—David Marks, American Land Commissioner, is dead at Ancon Hospital, where he was taken a few days ago suffering from a stroke of apoplexy. Death came late yesterday.

VENTILATION COSTLY.

(From the Newark News.)

"You needn't talk ventilation to me," said Mrs. Washburn, removing six clothespins from her mouth in order to talk.

"Don't you believe in fresh air?"

"In its proper place, yes, but in a fresh air all right, but it's a mighty expensive thing in the house."

"Well, my Lily came home from school one day with her head full of nonsense about us should have a box of ventilation with the wind blowing across our beds. Nothing would do that night but we had to open the windows, and the next morning our parlor clock with a two-dollar bill in it and the six tablespoons that Miss Halliday gave me when she was married and my husband's Sunday shoes and the solid silver cake dish, they were all ventilated clean away and we were left with a box of ventilation and a bill for $100."

NEIGHBORLY NEIGHBORS.

The conversation at a recent social session turning to neighborly neighbors, Congressman Robert M. Smith of Ohio was reminded of a little pleasant by-town Smith and Jones.

Smith was rambling down the street one afternoon with a large smile floating over his features, when he met a friend.

"Why that beautiful smile, old man," asked the friend, pausing to clutch Smith's hand. "Have you stacked up against your happiness?"

"Yes," merrily answered Smith, "my next-door neighbor sent me a box of potent axle grease with a nice little note telling me to use it on my lawnmower."

"Happily," "Do you call a sarcastic smile like that happiness?" response of Smith. "I sent the axle grease back to him with a suggestion that he might use it on his daughter's hair."

NEW MARKET IN OLD TIMES.

(From the London Chronicle.)

Newmarket, where the racing nuts go to-day for the "Goodwood" was just the place to spend a bustling sporting day in the Merry Monarch's time. For this reason "Prin in Shadwell's comedy of the True Widow." Newmarket's rare place, there was a man's never idle with his horse and his cock-pit, and the cock-keepers, and the water in the north all the forenoon, then to dine and hear talk, a word but of cocks, dogs and horses; then we saunter into the health again; then to the door porter's, where you may play all night. Oh, it is a heavenly life. We are never idle."

RESOLUTE HAS A LEAD IN YACHT RACE AND SEEMS LIKELY TO WIN

Sloops Unexpectedly Started in Contest Late To-Day When Fog Lifted.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 18.—After hope of a yacht race to-day had been abandoned on account of the usual fog, which hung heavily all the forenoon, the sloop yachts Vanitie, Defiance and Resolute were sent away in a contest by the Regatta Committee about 1 o'clock. The weather had cleared unexpectedly and a steady wind gave promise of a good day's sport.

It has been a matter of general regret that the weather conditions for the series of contests off Newport has not admitted of any judgment on the merits of the three yachts that are competing for the honor of defending the America's Cup from Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock IV., which is now on the ocean bound for New York to be ready for the international races that are to be sailed off Sandy Hook in September. Because of faint winds or fog the yachts have been held at the moorings near here or have been unable to cover the course within the time limit.

A seven-mile beat to the Point Judith whistling buoy and a run home was the contest. It had to be covered twice around.

Resolute pulled away from Vanitie and seemed to hold stiffer in the increasing breeze. Defiance, with her smaller sail spread, fell further and further astern. It was a pretty fight between the two leading sloops.

Resolute and Vanitie went about on the port tack under Point Judith and headed down for the mark. Defiance took a long board to starboard. Resolute gybed around the whistling buoy at 2:28.55. Vanitie gybed around it at 2:31.25. Defiance gybed around the mark at 2:41.15.

Capt. Haff of the Vanitie picking up an increasing breeze, tried to drive his sloop down on Resolute and kill her wind. On the other hand, the first time he picked up not a little, but Resolute seemed to be the likely winner of the race.

GENERALS IN FIELD WILL DETERMINE FATE OF HUERTA'S OFFICERS.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Carranza's fighting men, the generals who have made his cause triumphant, will decide what amnesty is to be granted Federal troops. The question has been submitted to them, according to the Constitutionalist Junta here. If they advocate conciliatory action they will be adopted. But it is feared that in the case of most of the higher officials of the Federal army they will demand that they be slain.

Meanwhile the United States continues its efforts to influence Carranza for conciliation. Until Carranza announces a definite policy regarding his plans of government, President Wilson will not announce a change of policy for the United States.

Officials refuse to discuss the attitude of the United States regarding Mexican affairs. The various points of view are so numerous that this Government persuade Carranza to assume them. This he is understood to be determined not to do.

Mexico will participate in the Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco next year if the influence of Gen. Villa can accomplish that end, according to Villa's announcement to-day.

Villa received word last night that Gen. Pascual Orozco, the hated leader of Federal irregulars, had deserted the Huertista garrison in San Luis Potosi, taking with him 4,000 men. It was reported Orozco fled into the mountains, declaring he would never submit to the Constitutionalists.

The Constitutionalists' alleged attitude toward the Roman Catholic Church has resulted in an unusual situation to-day in Nuevo Laredo. The Catholics are awaiting the outcome of an appeal to Gen. Carranza to change the situation.

HUERTA DIDN'T LEAVE EVEN ENOUGH FUNDS TO PAY SALARIES.

MEXICO CITY, July 18.—With the Treasury completely stripped of funds it is feared to-day that the Carranza administration will not be able even to pay salaries of government employees due Monday. Local banks may come to the assistance of the Government.

President Carranza expected to find the treasury depleted, but he believed he would at least find funds with which to meet expenses incurred in the Government offices.

If the Government clerks and higher officials are not paid it is certain serious discontent will follow, and the provisional administration will face trouble at the very outset.

SHAMROCK IV. SAILS FOR NEW YORK TO RACE FOR THE CUP

Rigged for Ocean Voyage and Conveyed by Erin—Nobleman One of Crew.

PORTSMOUTH, England, July 18.—Shamrock IV., Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America's Cup, under convoy of the steam yacht Erin sailed this afternoon for Falmouth, whence she will start for the United States.

The challenger, painted pea green, with her stumpy rig, temporary high rails for the protection of her crew and lifeboats on her decks presented by this means the smart appearance she displayed while racing. She looked shipshape, however.

The yacht passed through the lines of the fleet lying here and was given a hearty send-off by the warships and the excursion steamers and yachts, which wished her good luck by sounding their sirens while many of the craft hoisted Shamrock flags at their mastsheads.

Among Sir Thomas Lipton's guests on the Erin were Col. Neill and the Earl of Hardwicke. The latter will transfer to the Shamrock at the Azores and work his passage as an able seaman for the rest of the voyage. He said he hoped to make good and to be given a permanent job as a member of the Shamrock's racing crew. The Earl of Hardwicke has led an adventurous life as a cowboy in Texas and as a miner in Montana. He comes from a seafaring family and is very keen on yachting.

The Shamrock IV. has been rigged as a ketch for her voyage across the Atlantic and will carry only half of her racing crew of thirty men. Charles E. Nicholson, the designer; William P. Burton, who is to be the racing skipper, and Capt. Turner, who will act as skipper during the voyage, will be on board the yacht.

PANIC ON STEAMER BOUND FOR ROCKAWAY

Steering Gear of Chystenah Acts Queerly, but 300 Reach the Shore.

Three hundred passengers embarked from the Battery to-day on the steamer Chystenah, owned by A. J. Smith of No. 149 Broadway, bound for Far Rockaway. The boat was built in 1868. Off Far Rockaway something happened to its steering gear and she did not hold and lofty tumbling. A panic broke loose among the passengers as the boat sped in a circle and performed other unusual stunts.

Finally, as everybody was about ready to take to the water, the crew of seventeen managed to get her under sufficient control to float her up to the pier. The passengers tumbled off in confusion and thankfulness. The tug Dabell took the Chystenah to the Brooklyn drydock.

7,000 REBEL TROOPS MARCHING ON CAPITAL TO PRESERVE ORDER.

MONTEREY, Mexico, July 17.—Seven thousand Constitutional troops were to-day ordered to march toward Mexico City, to be ready to preserve order there in case of an outbreak.

AN UNEXPECTED TREAT.

(From the White Star.)

One Douglas Avenue restaurant proprietor hasn't quit gasping over a little farmer's dinner which took place at his establishment this week. A prosperous looking farmer and his wife entered, the woman bearing a huge basket on her arm. The man asked if he might have a table.

Then while a waiter stood in awe-struck attention, the woman opened the basket and brought forth fried chicken, jelly rolls, real home made apple butter, some doughnuts and other things and the couple enjoyed an old fashioned farmer's dinner under the envious eyes of the guests. Dinner over, the couple started to leave the restaurant.

"Oh, have a cigar," said the bewildered proprietor.

"Thanks, don't care if I do," responded the farmer, and he even sniffed of the weed suspiciously as they left the restaurant.
